- Everyone is obliged to participate in the wiki.

You are members of a small consultancy group whose task is to advise a food producing company (or a different business profile of your choice) on how to diversify its operations during a pandemic. Consider the following:

- Which product or products could the company develop or sell that would be successful/sell well in a pandemic situation?
- How long would it take to put this product or products on the market?
- How could the development and marketing of the products be financed?
- What financial terms/conditions would the company be able to accept in order to access funding quickly?
